Cult Of Boys
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom goes out to supper. Aunt Polly has been informed of Tom's absence from school that afternoon and is furious. She sends Tom to bed and swears that his clothes are still wet from the rain, but Tom's half-brother, Sid, tells his stepfather that he was not in school at all. Tom has sworn the debt himself to disgrace his little brother.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of saucer. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His father has just been released from prison and is at home for the first time in years. Ben Sawyer has about his business, and Tom’s mother opens the door for the first time in some time. Tom’s father has been released from prison and Tom’s mother opens the door for the first time in some time.

As Tom and his parents sit down to dinner, Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom’s father has given him a new suit and shows him that his college is still open for him, but that Tom will have to go to school in the morning. Tom is thrilled, and his parents are proud.

Tom goes out to play, and on his way home he meets Huckleberry Finn, who tells him about his adventures. Tom is fascinated, and they spend the evening together, wandering the streets of St. Petersburg. Tom’s father is pleased to see him, but Tom knows that he will have to go to school in the morning.
