The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and finds Aunt Polly brooding about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he won’t be skipped school that afternoon and must remain at home and clean the floor and sweep the veranda, and she throws her hand in the air as if to show that her command is final. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom’s thoughts turn to the shantyboat that has been the subject of his gaze for the last hour. Tom has sworn to himself that he will catch the herring with his fisher’s ship and eventually make the farmers all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley.” A kind of welcome. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Politics Power The Common Good

Aristotle: Politics. In his Nicomachean Ethics, Aristotle (384-322 B.C.E.) describes the happy life intended for man by nature as one lived in accordance with virtue, and, in his Politics, he describes the role that politics and the political community must play in bringing about the virtuous life in the citizenry.

Politics refers to a set of activities associated with the governance of a country, or an area. It involves making decisions that apply to members of a group.
